

GLOBE-TRAVELLER

Travel offers its greatest freedom when comfort and independence remain constant throughout the year. Since 2012, we have been designing all-season Globe-Traveller camper vans that combine compact dimensions with carefully planned space, a double floor, effective insulation and solutions created for everyday use.

The 2026/2027 catalogue opens a special chapter in the history of our brand. In 2027, Globe-Traveller celebrates its 15th anniversary, marking fifteen years of developing our own vehicle concepts, refining ergonomics and maintaining a consistent focus on quality.

Our range comprises four series for different styles of travel: Voyager and Pathfinder for families, Explorer for solo travellers and couples, and Falcon based on the Volkswagen Crafter, with 4MOTION as standard. They all share the same objective: to provide freedom of travel without compromising comfort, functionality or refined design.

We invite you to discover the Globe-Traveller models and find the vehicle that best meets your individual needs.

A pull-down folding bed stored above the dinette adds two sleeping places without limiting the functionality of the living space.

Compact, versatile and family-friendly, Voyager XS is a refined choice for travellers looking for four-seat functionality in a shorter camper van.

With a double floor and all-season insulation, Voyager XS is prepared for comfortable travel throughout the year. Storage is arranged for everyday touring needs, with overhead lockers, wardrobe space, drawers and practical space under the bed.

The new composite rear wall simplifies loading and is prepared for a bicycle rack, including carriers suitable for electric bikes.

The uniquely designed bathroom, located in the middle of the vehicle, features a separate shower and a dry area with the washbasin and toilet.

In all Voyager series models, we have introduced a new rear body section that combines practical solutions with refined design. It is prepared for the installation of a bicycle rack, including for electric bikes, while its aesthetic, integrated look maintains the cohesive character of the entire structure. This improvement increases transport capacity without compromising on form.

The custom designed roof used in the Voyager and Pathfinder series creates 210 cm of standing height in the dinette and allows the folding bed to be stored in a cabinet above the living area. When opened manually, it provides a 187x134 cm sleeping surface while the table and the vehicle's sliding door remain accessible. Once folded away, the bed disappears into the cabinetry and leaves the daytime space open.

AL-KO ONDA Connectivity allows selected camper functions to be checked and controlled from a smartphone or tablet. Bluetooth provides local access near the vehicle, while an internet connection enables remote operation. Available functions depend on the model and configuration.

Depending on the model and configuration, the rear bench can be replaced either by a single seat or by a dedicated travel seat equipped with a seat belt and ISOFIX. These two options allow the interior layout and the number of travel seats to be adapted to individual needs.

In the Voyager X, Voyager XS and Pathfinder X, a lightweight internal sliding door separates the rear bedroom from the living area. During the day it sits almost invisibly alongside the cabinetry, while at night it creates a private sleeping zone without taking up additional space.

The new composite rear wall used across the Voyager series and on the Explorer Z EVO is around 15 per cent lighter than the previous construction. A larger opening and lower loading threshold make packing easier, while the integrated structure is prepared for bicycle racks, including carriers for electric bikes.

A double floor extends beneath the entire living area of every Globe-Traveller. It protects components of the water system and the waste water tank, while warm air distributed through this space supports year round use. In selected areas it also creates practical storage compartments accessible from inside the vehicle.

The Explorer Z and Pathfinder Z can be ordered in Bike Version, with the garage adapted to carry two bicycles inside the vehicle. In the Falcon Z, the storage area can be configured for bicycles or other sports equipment. Models with the composite rear wall can also accept an external carrier, including versions suitable for electric bikes.
