Together, we're going places ...

The 2003 Collection of Luxury Motorhomes

Compare Auto-Trail's level of insulation with it's competition

21 years of progress and innovation

When the late Bill Boasman built his first motorhome in 1982, he can scarcely have realised that, two decades later, the company he had founded would be the premier constructor of luxury motorhomes in the UK. In those early days the product was sold direct to the public, but even then the qualities built in to every Auto-Trail model brought growth to the company, and within five years, new, larger premises at Immingham were acquired.

Soon a network of dealers were established for the Auto-Trail products, and the reputation of the marque for quality and comfort increased hand in hand with growth in sales. It was during the 1980s, too, that the marque became distinguished by model names taken from tribes of North American Indians, symbolising the way that Auto-Trail motorhomes bestow freedom to roam with their owners – though in luxury conditions that the Native Americans could never have imagined. Names like Arapaho, Mohican, Scout and Cheyenne have since become legendary in the world of motor caravanning.

In the early days, methods of manufacture were far simpler than the sophisticated operations of today, bodies could be fitted to many light commercial chassis.

Volkswagen, Bedford, Ford and Peugeot were just some of the makes used, but it was with Mercedes-Benz that the Auto-Trail name was to become especially associated, in recent years both the popular Fiat Ducato and the world famous Mercedes-Benz Euro Sprinter are the specialist base vehicles chosen to satisfy today's motorhome owner.

Throughout the 1990's sales continued to increase, new models where introduced, new designs and methods where employed, it was clear to see that Auto-Trail where quickly becoming one of the most popular ranges of leisure vehicles in the UK.

In 1998 Auto-Trail formed a partnership with Italy's largest manufacturer of motorhomes, Caravan International. CI, as it is now better known, is part of the famous Europe wide Trigano Group.

With a number of manufacturing plants in France, Italy and the UK, Trigano are one of the largest manufacturers of motorhomes, holiday homes, touring caravans and camping trailers in Europe, as well as making many thousands of tents and the well known Trio awnings.

With the additional resources that the Trigano Group backing can provide, Auto-Trail has gone from strength to strength. Its reputation for quality in build and materials has been matched with innovative designs tailored to the needs of the twentyfirst century motorhome owner and a range of models to suit almost every personal requirement has been developed.

Throughout the 2002 season, demand for Auto-Trail products reached new heights, as customers recognized the merits of the finest company product range to date. During the year the company relocated to a brand new, purpose-built production plant on the prestigious Europarc development, situated just outside Grimsby in North East Lincolnshire. Here some 110 people are currently employed in a facility specially designed for leisure vehicle production, with state of the art machinery to implement production processes never seen before within this sector of the industry. GRP mouldings, furniture production and bonding processes are all at the cutting edge of technology, and the new factory will take the 2003 Auto-Trail range to fresh heights of quality and reliability as the brand celebrates its 21st anniversary.

With scope for substantial further increase in production over the next few years and a design team widely regarded as the most talented in the industry, Auto-Trail is committed to further strengthening its position as unquestioned market leader in the manufacture of luxury motorhomes within the UK.

Tracker

Compact, versatile and friendly

Life is full of fresh experiences; discover them for yourself in the compact and affordable Tracker.

This best-seller is the first choice for couples who want to combine living space with the convenience of a motorhome that is at home in any car park. Three layouts suit different preferences – and Trackers have the handsome good looks that add style to any driveway.

When we first conceived our compact motorhome we didn't merely rely on a smaller version of an existing layout. Our design team had the brief to give freedom-seeking couples the ideal balance between modest size for ease of parking and manoeuvring, and real interior space for living and relaxing. The results have been acclaimed, establishing a new class of camper-sized motorhome.

The innovative Tracker EK model provides a superbly cook-friendly kitchen with loads of storage space, along with a comfortable, sociable forward lounge where owners can relax – and entertain friends.

Tracker CK features an intimate rear lounge that converts to a double bedroom in seconds.

Ducato power

All Trackers are built on the latest chassis-cab to come from Fiat, with car-like cab appointments. These include an adjustable steering column, CD/stereo radio, adjustable map holder, cup holders and improved comfort seats fully upholstered to match the interior, (swivelling passenger seat in the case of Tracker EK and EKS). The new gearbox has an ergonomic dash-mounted shift, and power-assisted steering with a choice of high-torque 2.0 litre common-rail diesel engines which puts the driver in charge, whether manoeuvring in a supermarket carpark or accelerating up the motorway.

Auto-Trail quality throughout

We also determined that small size would not mean flimsy construction or basic facilities. Tracker models have the same rugged construction and the same grades and thicknesses of cladding and insulation as our renowned larger coachbuilds. Solid plywood furniture with hardwood framed doors lends a feeling of class and durability – and this is reinforced by a fine décor with quality fabrics and comfortable reflex foam seating. For 2003 we have introduced a one-piece GRP underfloor to provide maximum protection from road spray and salt, and at the rear there is a new GRP storage area for the leisure battery and spare wheel.

Tracker EK Kitchen

Good things come in small packages

Completing a total package for luxury touring, all models have a comprehensive equipment specification which includes pleated nightblinds, mains lighting with a dimmer switch, concealed 12 volt lighting over the lockers, and TV aerial and booster. A Heki 2 skylight is built-in as standard for 2003. In the kitchen, a full cooker with spark ignition and a generous 90 litre fridge with full width freezer make preparing meals on-board a pleasure. Single lever mixer taps are also new for 2003, as is our electrical management system with digital information panel. Modern, fully fitted washrooms incorporate a shower and cassette toilet. Extra storage for towels is another feature added for 2003.

Tracker – the friend of the family

Tracker is the perfect answer for single-vehicle households who like to roam. Nip into town, take it to the office or take to the hills. Versatile, easy-to-drive Tracker is the Ultimate Multi-purpose Vehicle.

A recent major comparison test in Motor Caravan Magazine summed up Tracker:

“The latest Tracker achieves a balance that is rare within a small motorhome: a living space in which it is pleasant to relax, stress-free sleeping accommodation and an on-board kitchen that's a cook's delight – all within a handsome vehicle of wieldy proportions. Add to this well-planned storage, top-notch build quality and attractive, solid furnishings and you have, as our discerning panellists recognised, a versatile, practical little motorhome with a winning formula.”

Apache – breaking new ground in value

A whole new wave of enthusiastic owners greeted our Apache models when they were launched last year. For the first time Auto-Trail quality and style was available at budget-conscious prices – yet without compromise to our market-leading standards of build.

Construction of Apache models uses the same gauge and quality of materials that make all Auto-Trail motorhomes an investment to enjoy. Bonded walls are a full 40mm thick, leading the UK industry for insulation. For 2003, a new one-piece GRP underfloor protects living quarters from damp and dirt, while the whole body is mounted on rubber blocks to reduce vibration on the road.

Proven power

The three Apache models are all built on the latest Fiat Ducato chassis for long life and predictable road-holding. Powered by new common-rail diesel engines, the Ducato has car-like features which make driving a pleasure, including the facia-mounted gearshift, adjustable steering column and convenient map holder. Apache 650 and 700 additionally gain central locking, electric cab windows and electric driving mirrors.

That continental touch

For 2003 an overhead panoramic skylight is added to the large, double glazed windows to enhance the welcoming interior. Curving, post-formed furniture is both elegant and practical – and like all Auto-Trails, it is of solid ply construction for maximum strength and long life. New textured Chelsea chenille fabric in beige and midnight blue upholstery for your comfort on tour and completely revised lighting makes the living space as pleasant by night as it is by day. Blue carpet and curtains, and brushed stainless trim details round off a décor that is right at the heart of clean-lined,

Apache 650 kitchen

Beyond expectations

Just as the furnishings are comfortable and stylish, there is little of the everyday about Apache's standard equipment. Touring essentials like gas or electric heating for hot water and a full set of night blinds and flyscreens are standard in all models, and all models even get blown air central heating. Apache chefs are free to cook up a storm with a full domestic-style cooker complete with electronic ignition and a generous 90 litre fridge with full width freezer. As elsewhere in Apache, sensible storage has been designed to keep everything at hand.

As you would expect in motorhomes with a continental influence, washrooms are bright and superior, with thoughtful storage for toiletries, well lit make-up mirrors and electric-

Cheyenne 2003 added quality, added value, added style

Acclaimed by owners and press alike, Auto-Trail Cheyenne models have established a new benchmark for mid-market motorhomes. Layouts designed around the preferences of today's motorhomers allied to highly specified bodywork and superbly equipped interiors have brought about soaring sales over recent years. For 2003, Auto-Trail's 21st anniversary year, this market-leading range advances yet again in terms of technology and user specification.

'Aerodome' styling

A distinctive new bodystyle features advanced, aerodynamic styling with a unique 'aerodome' at the forward end. For the first time 2003 Cheyennes offer a choice of Hi-line versions with overcab sleeping area, or Lo-line versions with overcab storage throughout the range. Both utilise a single-piece GRP roof.

Also new for 2003, the body width is increased by 86mm (3.5 inches), to allow greater internal living space, and all Cheyenne bodies are fitted with a complete GRP underfloor for protection and mounted to the chassis on rubber blocks to minimise vibration and harshness on the road. In addition to the choice of a Hi-line (with a double bed over the cab) or

Lo-line version (with sleek lines and an above cab storage area), every Cheyenne model may be specified with either the latest Fiat Ducato chassis powered by 2.8 litre JTD turbo diesel engine, or the very latest Mercedes-Benz EuroSprinter with a choice of 129 or 156 bhp common rail diesel power units. 6 Speed Automatic transmission is also available as a special order on the Mercedes models

Extra storage

Storage capacity is of importance to every user, and the new Cheyennes incorporate a range of extra facilities. All models have an exterior hatch, many to allow access to the underbed storage space, while redesigned gas lockers now hold two 13 kilo cylinders, and feature 'keyless' opening by means of an internal release lever. A new GRP storage area at the rear holds the leisure battery and spare wheel, while the Cheyenne 635 features a spacious off side exterior vertical 'ski' locker.

Style, comfort and convenience

Open the new door with its burstproof lock and integral flyscreen to discover that every aspect of modern living is built in to the latest Cheyennes. Luxury upholstery in 'Mayfair' patterned chenille welcomes you to a décor that is at the same time relaxing yet contemporary. Controllable central heating with blown air distribution caters for comfort on chilly nights while the standard Heki skylight brightens living quarters by day. Concealed lighting, a TV aerial and booster and surround-sound four speaker CD/stereo radio system all contribute to a pleasing atmosphere and to your enjoyment. The digital readout panel allied to the new electrical management system keeps you informed.

Cooking is a pleasure rather than a chore in the well equipped Cheyennes. A domestic-style cooker and fridge with full width freezer round out the galley, and for 2003 our new inset sink features a removable cover that can be repositioned to supply additional work surface.

The choice is yours

Established forward lounge models 630S and 630LB feature a new, continental-style bathroom for 2003 with additional storage space and a dedicated shower, while latest versions of the popular rear lounge 634s and rear washroom 635 embrace the improvements applied throughout the range. For the first time the Cheyenne range includes two new models both featuring a permanent double beds, the all new 632, with a corner washroom, and the top of the range 696G, with a double bed above a massive garage for optimum storage, the 696G utilizes the Maxi (3850kg) chassis.
